The Perfect Marriage

Genesis 2:13-18

Most of us would agree there has been a gradual breakdown in our society of morality and personal responsibility. I believe the downfall of the family is to blame. The next few weeks we will be talking about God's plan for the family and several aspects of how to revive our society. We begin where God's vision of the ideal family begins – with marriage. Here are four principles God lays down for the perfect marriage.

1) Severance .

First of all, there must be a severance - "For this reason a man will leave his father and mother..." There must be a leaving of the father and the mother. There must be a leaving of the old home - the old family ties - the old securities - the old protection - the old financial dependence upon mother and father - and the beginning of a new home.

Of course, that doesn't mean to ignore mom and dad - never call them up - never go home for a meal again.

In fact, it has been my observation that after marriage home often becomes more sacred than it was before - that the ties between parent and child are even more precious than they were before - but in a different way.

But there needs to be a severing that takes place.

a) Applies to Parents .

I honestly believe that these words were given, not just for the benefit of the bride and groom, but probably more for the mother and father of the bride and groom. I am convinced that it is often a lot more difficult for the parents to sever the ties than it is for the bride and groom.

In most wedding services the father of the bride is asked, "Who gives this woman to be married to this man?" And he answers, "Her mother and I do."

However, I wonder if the parents of both the bride and the groom should be asked, "Do you give your daughter to be married to this man?" and "Do you give your son to be married to this woman?"

There needs to be a commitment by both sets of parents because they, too, must sever the ties. They must each realize that their child is leaving the nest - and they must prepare themselves to let go.

b) Applies to the bride and groom .

And, of course, it applies to the bride and groom. Many marital problems come when one or both are unable to sever their ties with mom and dad. They still depend upon them emotionally, psychologically, and maybe even financially, and it creates a very insecure feeling within the marriage bond itself. There must be a severing of that tie.

Do you remember the old American Folk Song, "Billy Boy, Billy Boy?" There is an interesting line in that song - it says "She's a young thing and cannot leave her mother." Do you remember that? How old do you think she is? When you sang that song how old did you picture that girl? 16? Maybe 17?

But when you learn all the words to that song an interesting fact emerges. Here is how the song goes: "How old is she Billy boy, Billy boy? How old is she, charming Billy? Three times six and four times seven. Twenty-eight and eleven. She's a young thing and cannot leave her mother."

Now, I may not be real keen on math – but when you multiplied and added all that up - and if my math is right, that "girl" was 85 years old. "A young thing and cannot leave her mother" she was not. It makes you wonder how old her mother must have been, doesn't it?

Still, she was not old enough to sever the ties and to marry poor old Billy. As far as the song goes, Billy ended up with no wife because "She was a young thing and could not leave her mother."

A lot of problems in marriage arise simply because severance didn't take place. Yet God says a severance must take place.

2) Permanence .

Secondly, there must be permanence. Look at the words "...and be united to his wife." Or, as the King James Version puts it, "...and shall cleave unto his wife."

a) To cleave .

The word "cleave" is an interesting word. It means to "glue one thing to another to form a permanent bond." It was used by Moses about disease clinging to the body. It was used by Job to describe flesh clinging to the bones. It means a permanent bond has taken place.

Most couples getting married say the words "Until death do us part" as part of the wedding ceremony, but I wonder if they really contemplate what they have just said and what they have just promised one to the other.

They have said "As long as I live - as long as my heart beats - I will be your husband or your wife." That becomes not only a pledge to each other - it becomes a pledge to Almighty God in heaven.

b) To commit .

Some people getting married think, "I will be your husband or wife as long as we have mutual interests - or as long as other things don't interfere - or as long as we get along with one another." But when problems arise much of the world says that the thing to do is to pack your bags and go your separate directions.

Back on a cold January afternoon, a number of years ago, I made that promise to my wife and her to me. While neither of us realized all that commitment would entail in the years to come, to the best of our understanding we meant what we said.

It hasn't always been easy. We are individuals. There have been times when it might have been the easiest thing just to pack my bags and never come back - and she probably would have gladly helped me pack.

But many years ago we promised each other that through the good times and the bad times - through sickness and health - through riches and poverty - no matter what happens - we will be husband and wife until death does the parting.

There must be permanence. We made that commitment and it is no longer just ours - it is God's. It belongs to Him and we belong to Him. We made it not just to each other - we made it to God. A psychologist in San Francisco said, "There are two things which should never be started prematurely. One is divorce, and the other is embalming." I agree on both counts. Neither one should be started prematurely. There ought to be a permanence of the bond that exists there.

3) Unity .

Thirdly, there is the word "Unity." "...and they will become one flesh..."

a) Not achieved instantly .

Two people becoming one are not something that instantly happens when the minister says "I pronounce you husband and wife" and the bride and groom kiss each other. It begins then, but unity isn't instantly achieved by anyone.

It begins on the wedding day and the process continues as they live together - as they learn how to disagree - and how to argue - and how to pray - and how to love each other. Unity forms and deepens as they share the events of life - both good and bad - with each other. It doesn't happen instantly.

b) Not intended uniformity .

Do not think for a moment that unity and uniformity are the same things. When God presented Eve to Adam, He didn't expect Eve to become a female Adam. He expected Eve to be Eve and Adam to be Adam. They are different psychologically and physically. They are different and God never expected them to become exactly like one another.

Uniformity is achieved in the donut factory where they make one donut after another - and the hole is always in the same place. It is achieved on the assembly lines where they produce one car just like another.

But uniformity is not achieved in marriage and God never intended it to be that way. God doesn't expect two people to become exactly like each other. They are individuals.

Peter Marshall said, "Marriage is the federation of two sovereign states." The bringing together of two sovereign states to form a unity spiritually - a unity physically - a unity socially - a unity materially - as they share together the blessings that God gives to them. That special unity begins on the wedding day and it grows as they share all of life together.

4) Intimacy .

a) Being naked .

The last word is "intimacy." Vs. 25 says, "The man and his wife were both naked, and they felt no shame."

We may not really understand what is being said here. In our day whenever we hear the word "naked" we think of pornography - we think immoral things. But the word "naked" here simply means "one is laid bare - there are no secrets - all the warts and blemishes are revealed and everything is laid bare."

Then notice that it says, "...and they felt no shame." It means that they were not embarrassed - because there was a perfect relationship between Adam and Eve.

It is interesting to note in chapter 3 that when sin came into the Garden that they quickly covered their nakedness. And when God asked them why they covered themselves they said "because we were afraid and we are ashamed."

b) Being legitimate .

Most of us have a basic need for that kind of intimacy with another human being. When we seem to be unsuccessful in finding it within the bond of marriage, we search for cheap substitutes. Satan is more than ready to offer as many as you want.

I believe this is the reason why pornography is such a huge business today - because people are searching for substitute intimacy.

Perhaps that is why there are so many illicit affairs, that is, intimacy without the responsibilities of marriage. It is a cheap substitute, but it doesn't work. Somehow, all of the substitutes that Satan offers only end up leaving us twisted morally and emotionally. We look at our world and it is crippled because the whole world is searching for the very thing we have in verse 25 - and it has not been able to find it because substitutes never satisfy.

God says that two people can become one and there can be a permanent relationship that exists between them and they can find that intimacy that only can be found as husband and wife become one in God through Christ Jesus.

Conclusion

I hope that you have been able to see throughout this that what is required for a successful marriage is also required for a successful relationship with Jesus Christ. There must first of all be a severance - a turning away from the sins of the world and the worldly life-style.

Secondly, there must be a permanent relationship with God as we accept His Son as our Savior and His Holy Spirit comes to live with us and comfort us.

Thirdly, a unity must develop between ourselves and the God who created us as we come to love and serve Him more.

Finally, there will be a closeness - an intimacy between ourselves and our Creator as we walk with Him all of the days of our life and into all eternity.

Reviving the Family

There are those who say the family unit in our society is in danger of extinction. Some say it is still intact, but must evolve to become more functional in our modern society. Yet others believe it is just another ancient concept that has lost its relevancy. For us as Christians it represents one more battleground on which to stand firm if we want to see God's Kingdom come on earth as it is in heaven.

We within the membership of a local church know the value of family. The Bible teaches that the institution of family is of divine origin and purpose. It also provides guidelines for good relations within the family. A commitment to the divine principles provides today's best hope for the recovery of family life. Marriage is a divine institution, ordained and regulated by God's word. It is found in every human culture. God formed humanity as male and female with the intent that a man leave his father and mother to cling and commit to a permanent union with one woman (Genesis 2:24).

Marriage is the first institution established and elevated to the most intimate of relationships by God and the only one founded before the fall of man. Many people throughout the ages have questioned, rebelled against or attempted to change the pattern of this ideal covenant forged by God. Rooted in a divine origin, marriage is an institution that is not subject to the human school of thoughts, electoral process, political correctness or even the cultural trends that influence the tide of traditional or liberal thinking today. We can either listen to the world's opinion or the Lord's Word. Those are the only two choices. Either we go with the flow of what's happening in our society, and give in to the whole system or we hold up the Word of God and say "This is what God requires. And as for me and my house, we will hear the Word of the Lord."

In Matthew's gospel, we have the teaching of the Lord Jesus Christ on the subject of marriage. When some people confronted Jesus about grounds for divorce, His response affirmed God's original and perfect blueprint for marriage—the Creation ideal. Pay attention to Matthew 19:1-6. In His Sermon on the Mount (Matthew 5:31-32) the Lord answered the question on divorce and the sanctity of marriage not on the basis of rabbinic custom and their debate but rather from the account of creation and God's original design. Jesus in effect said, "Haven't you ever read the book of Genesis?" The Lord answered them by directing the Pharisees to God's original intention in marriage.

Erma Bombeck said, "The family. We were a strange little band of characters trudging through life sharing diseases and toothpaste, coveting one another's desserts, hiding shampoo, borrowing money, locking each other out of our rooms, inflicting pain and kissing to heal it in the same instant, loving, laughing, defending, and trying to figure out the common thread that bound us all together."

Over the next few weeks we will look at God's plan for the family and how we can work to revive it in our society.

God Bless You!

Bro. Allan
