Gifts for Your Enemies

Romans 12:9-21, Matthew 5:43-48

Is your shopping done? It seems like there is always that hard to buy for person. It always takes until Christmas Eve to settle for just the right present. It's fun to shop for our friends and family. But what do you get for your enemies? May make four suggestions?

1. Love .

Love your enemies. Agape your enemy. Love your enemy like you love God. Love your enemy like you love your closest Christian Brother.

This word love here is and action word. It really means doing the right thing for someone. It has nothing to do with warm fuzzy feelings.

You say, "But I can't. It's impossible." Then Jesus has asked you to do the impossible. And here's a question: If you loved your enemy, would they be your enemy for very long?

2. Prayer .

Pray for those who persecute you. When Jesus said that, I don't think he met that you pray bad fortune on your enemies. Maybe you should pray for their salvation? He Jesus forgave you, he'll forgive them. Maybe your enemy is a brother in Christ. Then you should pray God's blessing on them?

I'm not for sure what you Jesus met when He said pray for those who persecute you. But I do know this - He does want you to pray for your enemies. Are you doing it?

What a wonderful Christmas card you could send to someone who you have had a 10 year feud with. Dear Sir, I know we've not gotten along very well over the years, but this Christmas season, along with this card, I say prayers on your behalf. May God bless you this Christmas. Signed, Your name.

What would that do to your relationships? What kind of example would that be for your children? Why not give love and prayers to your enemies this Christmas? I believe that is what Jesus wants you to do (Romans 12:9-21).

3. Blessings .

Paul said, "Bless those who persecute you; bless and do not curse. (Romans 12:14). I realize this is unnatural. If someone persecutes you, you don't want to give them a blessing you, you want to knock their socks off.

What does this word bless mean? It means to praise. Praise the one who persecutes you. It can mean give thanks. What, are we are supposed to say thanks for persecuting me?

If you look hard enough you can always find something to be thankful for, even in persecution. This word bless can me one other thing. And that is to speak well of.

Do you find something good to say about those who persecute you?

4. Hospitality .

The passage in Romans speaks of offering food and drink and showing hospitality (verse 20). If you knew that one of your Christian brothers or sisters had a need, what would you do? You would do what you could to meet it. You should do the same thing for an enemy.

Conclusion

This morning I have suggested 4 gifts you should consider giving to your enemies. You should give them your love, your prayers, your blessings, and food and drink.

That is some heavy stuff. Don't leave this morning without knowing how to give these gifts. How do we wrap up these gifts?

1) Ask God for HELP . It may seem that God has asked to do the impossible, and maybe for you yourself it is impossible, but ask God for help and he will help you.

2) Forgive them. It doesn't matter who it is or what they have said, you must forgive them. It doesn't matter if it is a family member or a stranger, God doesn't care what they have done to you, He wants you to forgive them.

Matthew 6:14,15 says, "For if you forgive men when they sin against you, your heavenly Father will also forgive you. But if you do not forgive men their sins, your Father will not forgive your sins."

You won't be able to love your enemy until you forgive him. It will be impossible to bless someone who you are holding a grudge against. You are not likely to pray for someone you haven't forgiven.

3) Treat them fairly . Treat them the way you want to be treated. In your anger you might think, well, I don't care what my enemy says about me. Or maybe you find yourself thinking, "Let him try to hurt me".

4) Practice Humility . Remember you are not perfect. When you realize you have made some of the same mistakes as you enemy it's easier to treat them like God wants you to treat them.

5) Give them the benefit of the doubt. Many of you have harbored feelings, you are holding grudges, your curse your enemies, you watch them like hawks waiting for them to mess up. If you can't treat your enemies the way God wants you to at Christmas time, you probably never will. Won't you make this holiday season the one where you give these great gifts, not only to your loved ones, but also to your enemies.

Richard Wurmbrand tells the story of a church leader he met while imprisoned in Romania who was sentenced to 22 years for his goodness. The man, his wife, and six small children were eating breakfast when the police burst into his home. They had just read Psalm 23.

When the police arrested him, the minister said, "You are the fulfillment of what we have prayed today. We just read...that God prepares a table before us in the presence of our enemies. We had a table but we had no enemies. Now you have come. If you would like anything that is on the table, I would like to share it with you. You are sent by God."

The captain screamed. "How could you speak such stupid things? We will take you to prison where you will never come out. You will die there. You will never see your children again."

"We have also read about this today, that I pass through the valley of the shadow of death and will not fear it."

"How in the world should you not fear this?" shouted the officer. "Everyone fears death!"

"...The shadow is not something to fear," the minister said calmly. "A shadow of a dog can't bite you, and a shadow of death can't kill you. All these things are shadows. We will have another life and not only one of this world. We can be killed. We can be put in prison. Nothing bad can happen to us. We're in Christ, and He takes us to another world."

The church leader was taken to prison and his wife and six children were deported, but he knew that he had a God who would take care of them.

A reporter was interviewing an old man on his 100th birthday. "What are you most proud of?" he asked him.

"Well," said the man, "I don't have an enemy in the world."

"What a beautiful thought! How inspirational!" said the reporter.

"Yep," added the centenarian, "I've outlived every last one of them."

Rejecting the Gift

Have you ever receive a bad Christmas gift? Here's the top five most overheard comments regarding bad Christmas gifts.

5. Hey, now there's a gift.
4. If the dog buries this, I'll be furious.
3. I love it – but I fear the jealousy it will inspire.
2. Shucks, and I vowed to give all my gifts to charity.
1. This is a perfect gift for wearing around the basement.

We tend to think of Jesus as the ultimate gift, and that's true. But there are many who reject the gift. What causes them to do that? Here are some reasons.

1. They don't like the wrapping. They see the outward trappings of religion and not the fact that, while the wrapping is imperfect, the gift itself is perfect. They see imperfect Christians, some of whom are just Christians in name only, but don't really believe in Him, love and serve Him, and others who are just stumbling along the best they can. They think that if this is what I can expect from Jesus, I don't want it. They see people who love Jesus on Sundays and treat their customers and employers and co-workers like the devil the rest of the week.

2. They don't like the giver. The giver here is God. Because some people are angry or disappointed with God for any number of reasons, they don't like His gift. Maybe He didn't answer a prayer the way a person wanted. Maybe they look around and see all the evil and war in the world and think God is incapable of doing anything about it, so they don't want any part of a weak God. Or they think He's unfair as they see the corrupt person flourishing and the good people suffering. Folks, let me tell you that in spite of what it looks like through our human eyes and emotions, God is all-loving and all-powerful, and His plan and purpose will ultimately prevail. Jesus – the gift is part of that plan and purpose.

3. They prejudge the gift. They have all sorts of ideas of what it means to be a Christian and follow Jesus. They think it means giving up all their fun, or having to live by a ton of rules and regulations that take away their freedoms. Or they think that no reasonable person could believe the Bible, so they reject the possibility that it could actually be true, even though the evidence is overwhelming for the reasonable person who actually looks at it. Or they see how Jesus is portrayed in whatever setting - as a weakling or as a leader of weak-minded people who ended up getting killed for His troubles.

There are lots of reasons people reject the gift of Jesus and what He came to bring. So here's the bottom-line: The gift is too valuable to pass up. Get past the other stuff and look at Jesus for real and you'll see that He's worth it. There are basically two types of people: Those who have received the gift and those who haven't. It's pretty much that simple. Allow me to invite you to receive the gift today.

God Bless You!

Bro. Allan
