Celebrating Dad

Today is Father's day, the day we set aside annually to honor our Fathers. Sorry I couldn't be at Calvary today, and equally sorry not to be celebrating Father's Day with my own 91-year-old father. Instead we are in Tulsa celebrating Father's Day with our Grandson Theodore. That might seem odd, but his one year birthday was this week and he is also being dedicated to God at Memorial Baptist Church in Tulsa with his family.

Have your children ever talked you into buying them something, even though you knew better? Well that's what happened to one mother who let her children talk her into getting a hamster. They promised to take care of their pet; to make sure it had food and water; and clean its cage. So she gave in and bought it. They decided to name the Hamster "Danny."

Within two months, though, the mother was the only one taking care of Danny. One day Mom decided enough was enough; Danny had to go. She called the kids together to tell them her decision. One child said, "I'll miss him. He's been around here a long time." Another child remarked, "Maybe he could stay if he ate less and wasn't so messy." But Mom was firm, "It is time to take Danny to a new home."

"Danny?" the kids screamed, "Oh no, we could never get rid of Danny. We thought you said Daddy."

Sometimes being a good father is the hardest thing any man has ever tried to do. Our society lives under the mistaken belief that there is no realistic need for fathers and that a home is just fine without them. Sadly, some men have reached a point where they believe this worldly view. They feel they can enter and leave a relationship at will and there is no harm done. Living together before marriage has become so commonplace that many in the Church have come to accept it.

It seems more and more single women who want children are not getting married, seeing no need for the presence of a father in the home. They are perfectly confident that they can raise a child with no fatherly input or support. However, just the opposite is true. We are now discovering that a lack of fatherly influence in the home is severely detrimental to families, which in turn is severely detrimental to our society as a whole. We are reaping the 'benefits' of our irresponsibility, something the Church has known and proclaimed since the beginning.

Someone once said, "As the Family goes, so goes the nation." Which I certainly believe is true. But allow me to add even more— "As the Father goes, so goes the family."

Several years ago, Christian Author and writer James Dobson said, "The Western world stands at a great crossroads in its history. It is my opinion that our very survival as a people will depend upon the presence or absence of masculine leadership in millions of homes... I believe, with everything within me, that husbands hold the keys to the preservation of the family." He was right then, and still today. Dads, we celebrate you!

God Bless You!

Bro. Allan
